HPF Symposium

Whanau Ora, Tamariki Ora – The Wellbeing of Families and Children.
Thursday 1 July and Friday 2 July 2010. Brentwood Hotel, 16 Kemp St, Kilbirnie, Wellington

Improving the wellbeing of families and children is an essential part of health promotion practice. Last year's Symposium looked at global influences on health. This year we have come closer home to focus on our whanau and tamariki, families and children.

Our aim is that you leave the Symposium re-energised with new learning, new tools, and renewed inspiration. We received great feedback about how people loved the format of last year's Symposium, and so we have kept the same format.

Key note speakers include

Professor Asher - is a highly regarded paediatrician, researcher and advocate for children. She is a respiratory paediatrician at Starship, leads a major worldwide epidemiological study into childhood asthma and allergies, and is Head of the Department of Paediatrics at the University of Auckland. She is a spokesperson for the Child Poverty Action Group.

Nancy Tuaine of Te Atihaunui a Paparangi (Whanganui) - is the manager of the Whanganui River Māori Trust Board. She is also a member of the Whanau Ora Taskforce and a Ministerial Appointee to the Whanganui District Health Board and a Hauora A Iwi

“Globally, those societies that invest in children and families in the early years—rich or poor—have the most literate and numerate populations. These are the societies that have the best health status and lowest levels of health inequality in the world.”

Early Child Development – A Powerful Equaliser, a report for the WHO Commission on Social Determinants of Health representative on the Mana Whenua Partnership group. Nancy is Co-Chair of the Wanganui Community Taskforce on Youth Wellbeing collaboration between the District Council, Government Ministries, the Youth Sector and Whanganui Iwi.

Technically Nancy's foundation in Whanau Ora began in her former employment at Te Puni Kokiri and Te Oranganui Iwi Health Authority. However she attributes most of her learning's to her own Whanau Ora having been a whangai mother to her niece and nephews for a period of time during their teens and a single mother to her son.

Gore District Community Awards 2009 Toastmasters Communicator of the Year

Jill Ware

'Closing the Gap in a Generation Health equity through action on the social determinants of health'

After attending the Health Promotion Forum workshop on the Commission on Social Determinants of Health, three of the participants responded to the challenge to take their learning back to the Gore community. The forum chosen was the monthly community liaison meeting where a wide variety of agencies gather to share their work and support each other. The maximum time available for the workshop was one and a half hours. The presenters were generously provided with the presentation material used by Alison Blaiklock for the day-long Dunedin workshop and the three presenters reduced the material to fit the time allocated time. This presentation contributed to Jill's nomination for the award.

CompsHP

The CompHP project is important work on Health Promotion Competencies in Europe and is sponsored by the International Union for Health Promotion and Education (IUHPE). The project aims to develop competency-based standards and an accreditation system for health promotion practice, education and training that will positively impact on workforce capacity to deliver public health improvement in Europe. Helen Rance is a member of the international advisory panel. She anticipates incorporating this experience into the HPF review of New Zealand health promotion competencies.

Practicing Prevention

In February this year a group of New Zealand's leading cardiologists and health professionals completed an epic bike-ride from Cape Reinga to Bluff. Every cent raised goes directly towards setting up a research hub for preventive heart health at the University of Auckland.

Phil Shoemack says he heard about plans for the “Great Ride for Heart” back in June last year and “signed” on almost immediately. He began preparations including figuring out how to fund raise and also how to get the body ready for two weeks of cycling covering over 2100 kilometres. Everything came together relatively easily in the end in no small part due to the excellent organisational skills and practical support from the amazing staff at the National Heart Foundation. It was privilege to ride through the country with such a great group of people. By the end of the journey they all had a better appreciation of our beautiful country, and of course of each other. As well as safely completing the journey from Cape Reinga to Bluff they were also successful in attracting donations for preventive heart health of almost $1.2m and still counting. To make a donation or find further information check out the heart racer website

As our new Office Administrator, Lucy Kapa brings with her a mix of extensive administrative, project management and meeting experience spanning some 30 years. She has applied this skill set in a number of organisations: government and local government departments and more recently in a tertiary institution. She has a passion for advancing and promoting education and health for Maori. Lucy is of Ngati Tautahi, Ngapuhi descent.

Issues and News

Massey Public Health School launched 24 March 2010

“Leading figures in New Zealand health sector joined the Massey University’s top health researchers to launch its new School of Public Health 24 March 2010.

Professor Sir Mason Durie, a driving force behind the School, told guests, including Health Minister Tony Ryall and Director-General of Health Stephen McKernan, that two clear goals lay at the heart of its establishment.

It aimed to continue “world class research evident now for more than a decade, as well as increase the health work force capability in New Zealand”. Sir Mason described the launch of the School, held at the Museum of New Zealand Te Papa Tongarewa in Wellington, as a milestone in health teaching research for Massey.”Link here to the Massey news and Maori TV coverage.
